"SYMPTOMS" REQUIRING AID FROM THE SOUTHERN LIVER REGULATOR.

The general feeling of a person troubled with torpidity of the liver is a sense of drowsiness and inability to attend to duties; bad taste in the mouth, pain in the back or shoulders, sour stomach, habitual costiveness, head feeling full, eyes feeling heavy and dull and often becoming yellow, restlessness at night, and dryness of skin; in fact, almost all of the common diseases may be attributed to a diseased liver.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE

THE ORIGINAL and ONLY GENUINE.

ADVICE TO INVALIDS.—If you wish to obtain quiet, refreshing sleep, free from headache relief from pain and anxiety, to calm and assuage the weary workings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne, late Army Medical Staff, to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever introduced.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists Medical Hall, Simla, January 5, 1880, to J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury London. Dear Sir,—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the widespread reputation this justly esteemed medicine Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances of confirmation of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne as Diarrhœa and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralagia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Cholera, Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a deliberate breach of faith on the part of the Chemist to prescribes and patient alike. We are, sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. age Wood states that Dr. J. Collis Browne was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of Chlorodyne; that the story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, has been sworn to.—See "The Times," July 13, 1864.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½, 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.

CAUTION.—Beware of Piracy and limitation.

H. H. THE NIZAM'S STATE RAILWAY

ADVERTISING AT RAILWAY STATIONS.

THE PROPRIETOR of the Bombay Gazette Press, having leased from the NIZAM'S STATE RAILWAY Company the exclusive right of advertising at all the Railway Stations belonging to the Company, is prepared to contract with parties desirous of posting notices or advertisements on the lines.

The Cantonment of SECUNDRABAD, as is well known, contains the largest military garrison in India—a garrison comprising over 5,000 British and native troops. Contiguous to it is the Cantonment of BOLARUM, garrisoned by two regiments and one battery of the Hydrabad Contingent, all officered by Europeans. South of Secunderabad, about 4 miles are the suburbs of Hydrabad, containing the Nizam's regular troops, about 5,000 in number, officered mostly by Europeans—besides a large civil population. It would manifestly be advantageous to firms to advertise at the stations on the above railway, the most important of which are SECUNDRABAD, HYDRABAD, GANGAVARUM and TANDUR.

The announcements may be in English or in any of the NATIVE LANGUAGES.

INSURANCE COMPANIES, SHIPPING COMPANIES HOTELKEEPERS, MERCHANTS, TRADERS and others who wish to force their business on the notice of the public, all alike value the privilege of Railway Station Advertising.

There is no reason why the privilege should not be also specially valuable to Advertisers in India. Looking to the great and increasing number of Native Railway Passengers on the two trunk lines on Western India, Native Merchants, Traders, &c., seeing that they have the privilege of advertising in their own language, would find the publication of their announcements at Railway Stations an infallible means of extending their business.

Advertisers can select the Stations at which they wish their Placards posted, and may advertise for any period that may be agreed on. The charges have been fixed on an extremely moderate scale to encourage Advertisers to make a liberal use of the new means now offered of making announcements known to the public.

Placards, according to the taste of Advertisers may be printed at moderate charges in ENGLISH or any of the NATIVE LANGUAGES at the Bombay Gazette Press. Estimates on application.

RATES.

Board not exceeding 2 feet long and 2 feet broad Re. 1 per month. For every additional square foot annas 2.

Thus a firm exhibiting a board, say 4 square feet will have the advantage of having their business advertisement read by thousands of Passengers on one station platform for the trifling monthly expenditure of Re. 1. Parties advertising on six Stations or more will be allowed a discount of ten per cent.; on twelve Stations or more, twenty-five per cent.

The boards to be delivered at the Bombay Gazette Office whence they will be sent by the Lessee to the various stations selected by the Advertiser. In the event of the contract terminating, the boards will be brought back to Bombay at ROBBING HIS FATHER.—Mr. Crawley-Boevey yesterday sentenced Nemchand Sunderjee, a young Bania, to two years' hard labour on a charge of theft of Rs. 460. The prisoner had robbed his father of this amount and had spent the greater part of it in extravagant living and treating his boon companions. In sentencing the lad to two years' imprisonment his Worship remarked that the accused was evidently a bad lad and did not seem to have improved during the five years he had served in the Reformatory. He had given him the maximum punishment the law allowed instead of sending the case to the Sessions.

REPORTED THEFTS.—Nagjee Waljee, living at Dongri Street, reported to the police the theft of sundry gold ornaments and a watch, of the collective value of Rs. 281, from his room during Wednesday night last.—Surroopchund Ghellabhoy, a broker living at the Mombadavie Tank Road, reported the theft of sundry gold and silver ornaments, of the collective value of Rs. 780, from a cupboard during his absence on Thursday forenoon.—Surroopchund Dewchund, also a broker living at Mombadavie Tank Road, reported that on his return from work on Thursday evening last, and on unlocking his room, he discovered the hasp broken off his box, and gold ornaments to the value of Rs. 250 and Rs. 50 in cash stolen therefrom.

CANCELLING OLD WARRANTS.—Mr. Crawley-Boevey yesterday cancelled a number of old warrants in which the accused persons could not be traced. A warrant had been issued at the instance of Mr. David Jolley against his clerk Shripat Shrinivas for criminal breach of trust in respect of Rs. 466, the property of the Port Trust. The money had been collected by the clerk from captains of ships in Oct. 1881 with which he had absconded. As the Trustees discovered that the warrant should remain out, and as there was a clue to his whereabouts the warrant was not cancelled. The following warrants were cancelled against Shamshoodin Imamjee for using a forged document as genuine against Mowjee Gewjee for criminal misappropriation of property worth Rs. 800 and against Bapoo Bagoo for breach of trust in respect of Rs. 12.

DISORDERLY PROCESSIONISTS.—At the Fort Police Court yesterday Inspector George charged Rama Balloo and two other Hindoos, before Mr. Ryan, with voluntarily causing grievous hurt to a coachman named Rowjee Bapoo. The accused, it appeared, formed part of a Gunputti procession which passed along the Frere Road. On the way they accosted a woman who was with Rowjee and attempted to take liberties with her. Rowjee interfered, and they assaulted him severely with bamboo sticks on which were iron pendants. The accused had apparently been intoxicated, as they continued to maltreat Rowjee, who would probably have been killed if the police had not interfered. As it was he was so seriously injured that he had to be removed to hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate a leg. Mr. Davur defended the prisoners, who were committed to the Sessions.

ACCIDENTS.—Gunnoo Kondajee, a labourer employed by the B. B. & C. I. Railway Company at Colaba, was yesterday afternoon removed to the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital with his right leg completely torn and mangled from the knee to the foot, alleged to have been caused while shunting a moveable crane on the Railway line near the Gun Carriage Factory at Colaba.—Feedah Hoosein, a lad about 12 years of age, was also admitted yesterday afternoon into the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital suffering from extensive cuts and wounds about the head, alleged to have been caused by an accidental fall from a loft in one of the boot and shoe shops opposite the Arther Crawford Markets, and his head coming in contact with the panes of a glass cupboard.—Missau Currie, a Goanese lad aged 17 years, employed at the Esplanade Hotel, yesterday morning let fall a large pot of boiling water while removing it from a fireplace and was extensively scalded about his body and limbs. He was at once removed to the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital for treatment.

PARSI SOCIAL PLAY AT THE NOVELTY THEATRE.—Mr. A. B. Patell's new Parsi social play "Takdirvi Tasir" is to be performed for the fourth time to-night, by the Victoria Theatrical company at their own Theatre, the Novelty. What with Mr. Ballivala's fine piece of acting as a Parsi fop enjoying life with other people's money, the miseries of Naval and Piroja, the hero and the heroine of the piece, depicted with much skill and ability; together with the splendid scenic arrangements, the play has become quite a favourite with the Natives, and especially with Parsi families. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather last Saturday, there was a large gathering of Parsi families at the company's performance. The plot is finely interwoven; and the dialogue is sweet and simple. The play abounds in a number of local hits which are well appreciated by the audience. The writer seems to have worked out his characters and pictures faithfully, preserving all dramatic propriety, and skilfully turning to good account his knowledge of the men and manners of the class of people he has depicted

PICKPOCKETS.—Roodra Mankoo, against whom there appeared a register of six previous convictions, was yesterday charged by Superintendent Smith, before Mr. Dosabhoy Framjee with stealing a purse containing Rs. 21-11-8 from the pocket of Hurry Wittoojee on Thursday last. The complainant is a cultivator who has recently come from Ahmednuggur. On Thursday, at 3 p.m., he visited the Albert Museum at Byculla. While there some person put his hand into his pocket, and on running round he found the purse in the hand of the accused, who was endeavouring to conceal it. He at once seized the accused, raised an alarm and handed him over to the police who came on the scene. The accused was convicted, and on admitting his several previous convictions, he was sentenced to two years' rigorous imprisonment.—Two other noted characters, Aly Ebrahim alias Aly Jan Gulam Aly and Mahomed Ameer, alias Mohamed Ismail, against the former of whom there appeared a register of three previous convictions and against the latter five previous convictions, were charged by Inspector Jones, before the same Magistrate yesterday—accused No 1 with stealing a purse containing Rs. 31 in currency notes and cash from the pocket of Heera Watcha, a dealer in vegetables, on Thursday last, and No. 2 with receiving the said stolen property, knowing the same to have been stolen. The complainant, while at the vegetable market at Byculla, at 5 o'clock on the morning of the day in question, saw accused No. 1 puting his hand into his pocket and remove the purse containing the money. When he seized the accused he immediately passed the purse on to accused No. 2, who then threw the purse aside. A scuffle ensued between the complainant and the two accused. A crowd collected, and the two accused were arrested and handed over to the police. The two accused were convicted, and on admitting their several previous convictions, accused No. 1 was sentenced to two years' rigorous imprisonment, and No. 2 to one year's similar imprisonment.

ALLEGED THEFT BY RESPECTABLE KHOJAS.

AT the Fort Police Court yesterday Superintendent Brewin charged Raimuth, a young Khoja girl with theft of silk cloths and ornaments valued at Rs. 250 the property of her mother Jeebhai. Two respectable Mahomedans named Mahomed Alli Sheriff and Cassum Thurwar were also charged with abetting her in the theft and with kidnapping her, she being described as a minor. The Hon. P. M. Mehta appeared for the prosecution and Mr. Shewshunker on behalf of the second accused. The case seems to have created quite a sensation in the Khoja community, and the court was crowded yesterday afternoon when the accused were placed before Mr. Ryan. As stated in court yesterday it appeared that the whole affair was a conspiracy. The Mahomedans became acquainted with the mother of the girl and visited her very often. They all resided in the same house but on different floors. A friendship seems to have sprung up between the girl Raimuth who, with her mother Jeebhai, occasionally visited the other accused. On Tuesday morning during the absence of Jeebhai the accused, Mahomed Alli, went to her house and spoke to Raimuth, who it appears opened an iron safe, and taking from it several valuable pieces of silk and some jewellery, gave it to him. Mahomed Ali left the house but returned with Cassum and a little boy and remained for a short time. It was probably then planned that they should all leave Bombay, as during the afternoon Raimuth left her mother's house saying she desired to see her sister, but she repaired to the rooms of the other accused. A carriage was engaged by them and the three drove to a house in Worlee which had been engaged and furnished by Mahomed Ally. The absence of Raimuth from home alarmed her mother Jeebhai, who made a complaint to the police. Inquiries were made and the girl Raimuth was traced to the house in Worlee where she was living, at the time, with the third accused. They were taken into custody and Mahomed Alli was arrested yesterday. Mr. Brewin applied for a remand for a week, as he had to make fuller inquiries into the case. Mr. Ryan granted the remand asked for, but admitted Raimuth to bail.

SHIP ON FIRE AT CALCUTTA.

A TELEGRAM published in the Bombay Gazette, a couple of days ago, announced that a fire had broken out and done considerable damage on board the ship Hutton Hall, 1,989 tons, at Prince's Ghat. The following account of the fire is taken from a local paper :—

It was discovered that the fire was located in the fore hatch, where a considerable quantity of jute had been put in the day previous, loading having ceased at 5 p. m., when the hatches had been closed and battened down. At five minutes to 10 p.m. the watchman observed smoke issuing from the fore hatch, and gave the alarm. Under the directions of Captain Petley, a considerable quantity of chemicals was thrown into the hatch for the purpose of smothering the fire, and this was done by hose. The hatches were then taken off, and the fire brigade, which was alongside, rendered all the aid in its power. The fire abated somewhat and Mr. Kingcome offered to go down the hatch with a hose, which he used gallantly. He was twice rendered insensible, and Captain Petley, seeing the danger, went to his assistance and carried him up. A great quantity of the jute, which had been burning rapidly, was brought up. The fire brigade, with the assistance of a number of the crew from the adjacent vessels worked all night, and succeeded in getting the flames partly under by daylight. The fire was found to increase at 8. a. m., and broke out in no less than three places two hours subsequently. No efforts were relaxed, and the conflagration gradually decreased by noon, when it was still smouldering in the hatches.

The origin of the fire is not yet directly known, but the presumption is that it was due either to spontaneous combustion, or to the working of the donkey engine, from the top of which sparks of fire are supposed to have fallen into the fore hatch before it was battened down. The Hutton Hall is commanded by Captain A. Slater, and is consigned to Messrs. Graham & Co. The vessel was manned by two officers, six apprentices, two seamen, a steward and a carpenter only, and assistance was rendered by the crew of the Holyrood, Poseidon, Benvenue, Four Winds, and the steamer Athabasca. Buckets of water were thrown by the men of these vessels into the main hatch, where the fire appears to have been confined. The vessel had loaded 11,000 bales of jute, and 6,000 more were to have been added to complete the cargo.

On the alarm of fire being known to the adjacent ships, the Captain of the County of Dumfries, with a number of his crew, went on board and rendered assistance. When the fire brigade launch Hughli came alongside at 11 o'clock, an hour after the alarm, five hose were set to play all night, four with plain water, and one with chemicals. Large portions of the lower decks were burnt by the fire, and other portions of the decks had to be cut away to allow the bales to be drawn out. About 400 bales of jute were brought up, and there is yet a considerable quantity in the main hatch, from which all the jute is to be taken out. A number of cargo boats were alongside the vessel to take the damaged cargo ashore, and up to late in the afternoon Inspector Bowen, of the River Police, who had been on board since the first alarm of fire, was helping to get out the damaged cargo. Captain Petley and Mr. Bernard were very attentive, and spared no efforts to get the fire under. The Captain of the vessel was compelled to employ twenty-five West Indians, and these men worked all night and day in removing the damaged cargo. The vessel was moved at day light from No. 3 to No. 2, Prinsep's Ghaut moorings. The Hutton Hall had come from Bombay about a month ago to load a full cargo of jute, and is owned by Messrs. Dunn and Co. of Liverpool. The chemical process now resorted to in cases of outbreaks of fire on vessels is Foster's Patent Hydro-Carbon attachment, which did good service on board the Hutton Hall.

A LARGE IMPROVEMENT SCHEME AT CALCUTTA.

THE necessity of opening a central road from the Hooghly Bridge to Sealdah has once more forced itself upon the attention of the Municipal Commissioners, and at a meeting of the Town Council on Saturday last, the proposal was considered in the light of a note written by Mr. Cotton. It may be remembered that the subject was fully discussed by a special committee in 1884, when the alternative schemes were considered—(1) of widening Cotton-Street and Machoea Bazaar-street as far as Circular-road, and (2) of constructing a new street from directly opposite the Hoogly bridge to the Sealdah railway station. The latter proposal found most favour, and Mr. Cotton, who has himself considered the subject carefully, is evidently convinced of the soundness of this conclusion. "Not only," he says, "will the new road be cheaper and run in a more useful direction, but the old roads will remain as they are at present, as an additional outlet for traffic." The cost of acquiring the land and houses through which this proposed new road will pass is estimated, we see, at Rs. 34,50,000 of which sum, however, it is expected that Rs. 24,30,000 will be realised by the re-sale of surplus lands in other directions, so that the nett cost of the new road to the city will be but Rs. 10,20,000. For prudence sake, however, Mr. Cotton thinks that a margin of 30 per cent. might be added to this estimate of nett cost, thus raising the amount to 13 lakhs, to which again must be added a further 2 lakhs for construction of the road, sewers, foot-paths, etc., after the land has been acquired. The whole nett cost will therefore be about 15 lakhs. The proposed new street will start directly opposite the Hoogly Bridge and run eastward almost parallel with Cotton-street as far as Chitpore-road. It will then cross Halliday-street to the north of the new Municipal pumping-station and will traverse the Soortee Bagan and Xola Bagan busties. Crossing College-street immediately north of the Hare-school the road will diverge thence in a south easterly direction to Sealdah, traversing Puttuatollah and Mirzapore-street (east of its junction with Amherst-street) and, ending in Circular-road through the slums of Boitakhana exactly opposite the railway station at Sealdah. The financial difficulty which stood in the way of this scheme in 1884, does not, Mr. Cotton points out, now exist, and he recommends the Commissioners to at once apply to Government for permission to raise a loan of 10 lakhs on account of the new road. This with the available money in hand, ought, he thinks, to prove ample for the purpose. The proposed road will, besides being a very important structural improvement, be beneficial to the city in many other respects, and though there may be similar undertakings requiring attention we agree in Mr. Cotton's opinion that the proposed central road is the most important of them, and "deserves priority of execution." We are glad to learn therefore that the Town Council has referred the subject to a special Committee for consideration. The public will await their report with interest.—Statesman.

THE ENCOUNTER WITH DACOITS IN THE CHINDWIN DISTRICT.

ACCORDING to a telegram from Mandalay, the following are the authentic facts relative to the late severe encounter with dacoits in the Chindwin district, when Major Beville and Captain Kennedy were killed :—

The rebels under the auspices of the Bayengan Prince and his coadjutor were, to the number of 200, located on the top of a hill. Major Kennedy, commanding the 2nd Infantry, Haidrabad Contigent, accompanied by Captains Beville and Welchman, with twenty men of the regiment, made a gallant rush up the slope, and were instantly greeted with a heavy fire from the enemy. A stray ball from the jungle hit Major Kennedy on the upper part of the arm, inflicting a dangerous wound. Although the blood poured freely and the shock was severe, he waited but a moment to have the wound bandaged by Captain Welchman with a handkerchief, and was among his men, while a thick shower of bullets poured like hail upon them, riddling their coats and puggaries through and through. After half an hour's severe fighting against such tremendous odds, the brave leader, who meanwhile had received a second wound in the leg, fell fainting from loss of blood, and was removed in a dhooly for treatment by the dresser. Captain Welchman then took the command, with a rapidly diminishing number of cartidges, two men wounded, and four others placed hors de combat. The dakaits, seeing their condition, capered about in triumphant glee, shouting in Burmese, "let us go at them with dahs. The men of the 2nd Infantry showed a bold front, keeping the enemy at bay. When the critical moment arrived only two rounds per man were left. A company of their comrades under Lieutenant Plumer was perceived on the crest of the hill, hurrying to their rescue, and the whole aspect of the fight changed. A charge with cold steel, following a well directed withering fire, rapidly turned the rebels into headlong flight. In ten minutes they had deserted their position, which was strewn over with numerous dahs, spears, and guns. A few ponies were found, and over forty dead bodies were counted. It is reliably reported that among the slain were the Bayengan Prince and his headman, with three bohs.

THE COOLIE QUESTION IN ASSAM.—A general meeting of the South Sylhet Branch Tea Association was held at Maulvi Bazar on Nov. 8, at which several strong Resolutions were passed unanimously, with regard to the inefficiency of Act I. to punish the harbouring and enticing of coolies, and more especially reflecting upon the unwillingness of the police to assist in arresting coolies, an instance having being brought to light in which the police had been known to abet desertion, and on conviction only one month's imprisonment was awarded.

MUNICIPAL MORTUARY REGISTER.—From the 29th ultimo to the 4th instant, 6 Europeans, 9 East Indians, 33 Native Christians, 291 Hindus, and 52 Mahomedans died in Madras, making a total of 391 persons. The average of the corresponding week for the ten previous years was 289. The deaths are thus classified, viz., 1 from small-pox, 75 from fever, 40 from dysentery, 25 from diarrhœa, 48 from cholera, and 202 from other diseases. The death-rate in the week under notice was 50·9 per 1000 per annum. The mean of the ten provious years was 37·7 per 1,000 per annum.

INDIAN SPORTING NOTES.

IT is seemingly almost a certainty that the Jodhpore Princes intend giving up the turf, for we hear that Maharajah Pertab Singh, who, as most of our readers know, is an Honorary Lieutenant-Colonel in the British Army, has determined on a thorough reform of the Jodhpore troops, and is going in steadily for drilling and parades. Veterinary Surgeon Carlisle was sent for from Poona a short time back and asked to castrate ninety-two horses comprising several valuable Arabs and the young country-bred stock of Kingcraft, Cockahoop and other well-known sires. This to render them suitable for cavalry purposes.

Robinson, Sr., the trainer, is once more his own master, having left the service of Sirdar Jewan Singh, who has employed that able professional Tingey in his place.

Thanks to Doctor Carlisle's able treatment, the Arab Eclipse is now so much better that Vinall hopes to be able to start him at Hyderabad, although a fortnight back he was as poor as a scarecrow.

Mr. Beaty will wield the starter's flag at Meerut, and has, we understand, been recommended for the same post at Calcutta.

First entries for Lahore are sufficient to please the most exigeant of secretaries, and a glance at the pony events will show how numerous this class is now becoming in Upper India.—Indian Planters' Gazette.

The efforts of the management of the Meerut meeting to restore this fixture to public favour are already bearing fruit. Very full entries were obtained to compete in the events so very liberally provided for, and a fairly large response has been made by visitors and stables. Great pains have been taken and much money expended over improvements on the course, and an ample paddock has been provided with eighteen roomy pucca stables. The arrangements for the totalisator, saddling, judging, &c., are all perfect. Eight large lotteries were held over the six events, the totalisator was largely patronised, and the attendance was full, including the General Commanding and the leading members of society. Interest in the sport was maintained all through the evening by close racing, and large fields turned out for the majority of events.—Pioneer.

THE BENARES POLICE TORTURE CASE.—With reference to the strictures passed by the Lower Court on the evidence of Assistant Surgeon Paran Chand in the police torture case, it is right to mention that the Civil Surgeon, whose evidence was subsequently taken, has removed the unfavourable impressions formed. The Civil Surgeon has stated that he did not consider the evidence of the Assistant Surgeon under attendant circumstances other than bond fide—Pioneer.

MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.—A large Missionary Conference was held last week by members of the C. M. S. to consider several points in connection with the welfare and advancement of the Society. Some 18 or 20 missionaries were present. At a special Choral Service held in the Station Church on Sunday evening many of the missionaries were present, the preacher being the Rev. Mr. Hackett, Principal of the Allahabad Divinity School.—Ibid.

INDIAN COOLIES IN REUNION.

A LETTER has been addressed to the Secretary of State for the colonies by the West India Committee on the subject of Indian coolies in Réunion. The letter states that the bulk of these immigrants are subjects of the Queen, having been recruited in British India, although many have, no doubt, been embarked at Pondicherry or Karikal, and adds :—

The West India Committee have frequently in past years called the attention of her Majesty's Government to this system of emigration, and pointed out the desirability of such arrangements being made and such supervision exercised as would secure the proper treatment of the coolies. In consequence of these representations it was provided that the British Consul should have power to visit estates. The French Government not approving of this provision the emigration was suspended, but it is now apparently to be resumed if the Indian Government will abandon the conditions on which they have hitherto insisted. The regulations contained in the new French colonial law are probably adequate for the protection of the coolies in the island and for their return passage. But we submit that the British Government should not relax its supervision, as there is not otherwise any security that these provisions will be carried out. We trust, therefore, that the Indian Government will not allow the resumption of this emigration from any British port or countenance recruiting on British territory without maintaining most rigidly those conditions which have hitherto been considered indispensible to the proper conduct of the system. There is another and most important aspect of this question to which we may draw attention. The sudden demand of the sugar planters in Réunion for additional labour to extend their cultivation is readily understood when the Sugar Law passed last year is considered. Under this law sugar from the French colonies enjoys a bounty on entering France of £7 per ton. This arrangement was made in order to place French colonial sugar upon a level with the home produce in regard to bounty. You will thus perceive, sir, how far-reaching is this bounty system. It restricts the legitimate development of our own colonies; it prevents the Indian coolie from finding a market for his labour in those colonies where he would be sure of finding work and wages, and where his treatment would be supervised by the British Government; and it compels British subjects in India to emigrate to foreign colonies, where they can have no such security for good treatment, instead of really bettering their condition within the limits of the British Empire. Again, it is possible that the heavy bounties in France may not be permanent. The taxpayer in that country may decline to continue to pay four millions sterling annually to bolster up the sugar industry. In the event, therefore, of a restriction of cultivation in the French colonies by the cessation of protection in the home market the coolies would lose their employment, they would become destitute, and there would be no money available to pay their back passages to India. In such an eventuality we submit that her Majesty's Government would be placed in a position of serious responsibility. We would therefore pray that her Majesty's Government would be pleased to represent to the Government of India that it would not be desirable to relax any of the regulations upon which alone the emigration of British subjects from India to foreign colonies could be recognised.

SIR WILLIAM MUIR ON UNIVERSITY EDUCATION IN SCOTLAND.

THE opening address of the winter session of the University of Edinburgh was delivered in the United Presbyterian Synod Hall, Castle-terrace on the 18th ult., by Principal Sir William Muir, K.C.S.I. There was a large attendance. The Principal in the course of his remarks said that the number of graduates had been well maintained in the Faculty of Arts; it was sensibly larger than in any previous year, while in Medicine the numbers were decidedly above the average. Among the students the corporate action already established continued to work well, and the representative council to extend its solidifying influence. The Students' Union had advanced a distinct stage in its history, and a site in every way suited for its purpose had been secured. Some advance was also being made by private effort to provide University hostels and settlements for the students. He wished them every success, which would be achieved if they were planned wisely, carefully arranged, and well regulated. An attempt had been made to get the restriction on the scholarships founded by the Government of India removed so that they might not be confined to students at Oxford and Cambridge, but should also be open to Scottish Universities. He regretted to say that their suit had again been refused by the Secretary for India. In respect to the Doctorate of Music, the expectations formed had been disappointed, the projected degree was found to be surrounded with unexpected difficulties, and in that and many other matters they would have to wait for that ill-starred bill which, like an ignis fatuus, was ever and anon appearing merely to elude their grasp. Happily, with the Agricultural Department the same difficulties were not experienced, and the degree could now be secured. The year had been marked by a valuable series of lectures on the philosophy of Hegel as affecting the person of Professor Seth, for which they were indebted to the wise generosity of the eminent statesman and scholar, the Right Hon. A. J. Balfour.

DEATH OF BARON JULES DE LESSEPS.

M. Ferdinand de Lesseps has met with a heavy blow in the death of his brother, Baron Jules de Lesseps, who was four years his junior. The Baron succeeded his father on the death of the latter as representative of France in Tunis. The whole period during which they both filled that position stretched over seventy years. It was at Tunis that Mathieu de Lesseps discovered the ability of Mehemet Ali, then a Macedonian lieutenant in the Turkish army, and thought of working him as a French agent in North Africa. Baron Jules de Lesseps was brought up with the more famous Ferdinand at LaJoncheres, near St. Cloud. They were both allowed to run wild until they were nearly old enough to enter the consular service. They spent most of their time as boys in forest rambles, and when the weather was hot in swimming and paddling about the Seine and the ponds in the neighbourhood on rafts of their own construction. This no doubt laid the foundation of the wonderful health the brothers enjoyed until quite recently. The brother whose name will be eternally associated with Suez bears the title of Comte, but he was plain M. de Lesseps for everyone who spoke to him, whereas nobody ever forgot to address the other as M. le Baron. The idea was that the greatness of Ferdinand was too transcendent to be limited by a title, whereas a handle to his name helped to give relief to the talents and qualities of Jules de Lesseps. Baron Jules died in his Tunisian villa in the Avenue de Montaigne of a cold that turned to congestion of the lungs. He was a Grand Cross of the Legion of Honour, Commissary General of the Universal Exhibitions of 1867 and 1885, and manager of the Suez and Panama Canal Companies. A few days before his brother died, M

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

FRIDAY EVENING, Nov. 11.

THE only changes in the financial quotations wired by Reuter are an advance of ½d. in the price of Silver in London at 43¾d. per oz., and a decline of ¼ per cent. in the rate for French Rentes in Paris at 107.

The reserve of the Bank of England goes on augmenting at the rate of 1 per cent. every week, and the Bank's return for the seven days ending on Wednesday makes its percentage of the Liabilities 47. The market rates of Discount were reduced (as noticed at the time) at the beginning of the week; but the Bank rate still remains at 4 per cent. per annum. £40,000 in Silver for Bombay is all the Specie shipped to India during the present week.

In Mincing Lane Linseed was steady, and Rapeseed quiet, at previous quotations; but Popyseed had further advanced 1s. per quarter to arrive via the Canal at 43s. per quarter. The Indian Wheat market was quiet and unchanged.

The expected telegram regarding the American Cotton crop came to hand this morning. It states that "According to the Agricultural Bureau's Report the picking has progressed so rapidly that the harvest is already finished except on those soils which resisted the adverse influences of the season. The result of the picking indicates a crop of about 6,300,000 bales on an area of 19,600,000 acres." This announcement produced a rise of 7-16 in the spot price in New York, at 10 7-16 cents; and of 41 points in Futures for March at 10·71 cents. The Receipts at the U. S. Ports yesterday were 41,000 bales against lighter days for the two previous years and making the comparative figures stand as follows:—

Tuesday Receipts	41,000	35,000	35,000
Five days' do	246,000	218,000	188,000
Since 1 Sept.	2,278,000	1,827,000	1,849,000

The effect of the news from America would not be felt in Liverpool until to-day, but meantime some anticipatory feeling as to its character would appear to have prevailed, for the market was strong, according to Reuter, at closing, the total sales having reached 20,000 bales, including 3000 bales of Surats, the market for which was firmer. Ready Mid-Uplands advanced 1-16d. say to 5¼d. per lb; and in Surats there was a rise of 1-16d. in "Good" and "Fine" Broach, and of ¼d. in "Good" Hingunghat. American Arrivals, on the other hand, were quiet, and were 1-32d. lower for January-March deliveries, and 1-64d. down in all other positions; and as to the general tone of the market, we hear that private advices speak of a much queiter feeling prevailing towards the close.

In sympathy with the news above referred to our market opened in an almost excited state, with quotations Re. 1 to Rs. 4 higher all round. "Good" Broach was quoted at Rs. 235-6; Julgaum, at Rs. 195; and Khangaum at Rs. 208; all for March delivery. "Good" Bhownuggar for April May was not offered under Rs. 203-4; Fully "Good" Rs. 211; and Fine at Rs. 220; and Dhollerah at Rs 3 less per candy. Contracts for some 15,000 bales of "Good" Broach for March were reported at Rs. 232 to Rs. 235; of 1,000 bales "Good" Bhownuggur for April-May as Rs. 201 to Rs. 203: of 750 bales Fully Good Dhollerah for the same delivery at Rs. 208; and 700 bales of Fully Good Julgaum for March, at Rs. 200 per candy. A few hundred bales of Bengals were also reported to have been booked for January delivery at Rs. 161 for Fully Good and Rs. 174 per Fine. In the after part of the day when the single European buyer retired from the market, things tailed off a good deal and amongst other signs of this Fully Good Dhollerah was fruitlessly offered at Rs. 206 per candy.

Old Cotton has been quoted Re. 1 to Rs. 3 higher, the greatest advance being in Dhollerah descriptions. Some 1,400 bales, made up of 600 Compta, at Rs. 162 to Rs. 169½; 400 Julgaum, at Rs. 184½; 200 Coimbatore, at Rs. 184; and 200 Wudwan, at Rs. 180 to Rs. 192; are reported to have been taken.

WHEAT shows no movement. A trifling business continues in the one variety of old stuff available, and quotations for that, and for all descriptions of the old crop, are unchanged

SEEDS.—Under the influence of some demand in the present bare state of supplies the price of Brown Delhi Rape Seed has advanced to Rs. 6 per cwt. and Brown Cawnpore to Rs. 6-0-6. Yellow is unchanged, as also are arrival prices for all descriptions of the new crop. Linseed is quiet and unaltered in value.

The Receipts of Produce into Bombay yesterday were as follows:—

Cotton	516	bales.
Wheat	15,136	cwt.
Linseed	5,

H. E. the Viceroy arrived at half-past four in the afternoon and was met by the Municipal Commissioner at the Frere Railway Station, where his Excellency received an address from the Municipality. Prominent mention was made in the address of the Hyderabad Pachpadra Railway, regret being expressed at the disappointing reply of the Public Works Department.

The Viceroy in reply said that in such matters he had to listen with great deference, if not with absolute submission, to the opinions of experienced advisers in several branches of the administration, but the mere fact that he had undertaken such a long and tedious journey to visit Karachi was proof that he would consider with great attention all the arguments that could be advanced in favour of the proposal.

THE Madras Government has issued a new set of rules regarding quarrying and mining leases in that Presidency, and in doing so announces that the right of the State to minerals is limited to a share of the produce of the minerals worked, commuted into a money payment if thought necessary by the Government, in all lands occupied for agricultural purposes under rayatwarri potahs, and in jenmam lands in the Malabar district. It is also stated that the Government has no claim to minerals in estates held on sunnuds of Permanent Settlement, in unfranchised inam lands, in religious service tenures, and in lands held on title deeds issued under the Waste Land Rules before the 7th of October, 1879, in which no reservation of the right to minerals is made.

THE census in China is, it appears, taken every three years, and though a most elaborate formula is laid down for the officials in charge of the different districts, from the Governors of provinces down to the policemen who chiefly have to furnish the statistics, it still is very doubtful whether the people have even as yet been correctly numbered, although the present law is based on a system established in 1648. Among the duties of the Census officials is to furnish a return of the quantity of grain kept in the Government store-houses in each district which is supposed to be equivalent to a supply for the inhabitants of their districts for a certain time. It appears to have been through these grain returns that the errors in the numbers of the population were first discovered, for on famines occurring in certain districts it was found that the stores of grain were not nearly equal to the requirements of the largely increased number of the population, though there can be little doubt that a good deal of the balance found wanting had gone into the hands of the higher officials. Almost an army of officials has been appointed for carrying out the new Census, which is expected to show that the number of inhabitants in China is actually larger than had been hitherto supposed.

ACCIDENT TO THE MOBILE.

THE E. and P. S. N. Co.'s steamer Mobile Captain C. Doert, arrived in Bombay yesterday afternoon, having been obliged to put back to sea on account of injuries she had sustained to her machinery. The Mobile sailed from Bombay on the 19th instant with a general cargo and about 72 deck passengers for the Persian Gulf. On the following day, at 3-30 a.m., while the vessel was progressing at her normal speed, a shock was felt in the after part of the ship. It was found on examination that her running shaft had snapped and in consequence, her propellor had dropped into the sea. Immediately the engines were slowed down and the vessel brought to a stand still. Soon the company's agents here were apprised of the danger; and as the Mobile had made only about thirty-five miles at the time she came to no harm. The P. and C. Co.'s tug-boat, Timshaw, which was despatched to her assistance, towed the vessel back to Bombay. The cargo, &c., on board the Mobile is being transferred to the same company's steamer King Arthur, which leaves Bombay for the Persian Gulf in a day or two. The Mobile will dock for repairs.

DEPARTURE OF THE HON. J. B. PEILE.

THE Hon. J. B. PEILE, C. S. I., who has been appointed a member of the Council of the Secretary of State for India, left Bombay yesterday afternoon under a salute of fifteen guns from the Saluting Battery. Accompanied by Mrs. Hojel and Lieutenant Bruce Berkeley, son of Colonel Berkeley, Resident at Baroda, Mr. Peile drove over in a carriage and pair to the Apollo Bunder at 4 p. m., when, among those assembled at the bunder to wish him Godspeed, were present the Hon. Raymond West, Mr. Justice Jardine, Colonel Berkeley, Sir Frank Souter, Kt., C. S. I., the Hon. Mr. Forbes Adam, the Hon. C. F. Farran, Messrs. Arthur Crawford, J. McLeod Campbell, J. O'Connell, Dr. Hojel, Captain Hext, Professor Forrest, Messrs. P. Ryan, C. Chambers, J. De C. Atkins, Under-Secretary to Government, R. E. Candy, S. Macdonald, Narayen Wasudeo Kherkur, Dewan of Palitana, Rao Bahadoor Haridas Veharidas, Dewan of Joonaghur, Rao Bahadoor Bichardas Veharidas, Messrs. M. M. Bhownaggree, C.I.E., K. N. Servai, Mansookhram Seorujram, Vundrawundas Purshotumdas, Lukhmidas Khimjee, Khan Bahadoors Byramjee Dadabhoy, Mir Goolam Baba, Cooverjee Cowasjee, Messrs. Soonderjee Purshotum Zala, Ranchordas Vundrawundas, Anandrao Narayen Wasudeo, Oomer Jamal, Hormusjee Cursetjee Ceorlawalla, V. A. Modak, Rao Saheb Gunputrao M. Pitale, Mr. Manibhoy Premabhoy Hemabhoy, and others. Sir Mansingjee, the Raja of Dhrangadra, who drove over to the bunder in a carriage drawn by four horses before 5 o'clock, had preceded Mr. Peile on board the mail steamer. For more than a quarter of an hour Mr. Peile remained in the carriage receiving the greetings of several of the gentlemen present, some of whom presented him with garlands and bouquets of flowers. The hon. gentleman had a long conversation with his successor, the Hon. Raymond West. At 4-30 p. m., as the Land Battery commenced firing the salute in his honour, Mr. Peile left the carriage; and with the hearty good wishes of those around him, proceeded in a steam launch to the mail steamer. He was accompanied thereto by Sir Frank Souter, Lieutenant Colonel Bissett, Colonel Berkeley, Lieutenant Bruce Berkeley, and several other friends.

A TELEGRAM from Lahore gives some particulars regarding a fire which has done much damage at the Egerton Woollen Mills at Dhariwal. The fire which broke out on Tuesday morning, originated in a small yarn godown on the south side of the mill. With a fair supply of water at hand the north side of the mill was saved, but the whole of the rest of the roof, with the exception of two spans, was destroyed. The building and its contents were fully covered by insurance. It is surmised that the fire was caused wilfully. An inquiry is proceeding.

A SOMEWHAT curious practice prevails in Italy regarding the preference of certain debts over others in an insolvent estate. Debts for machinery obtain preferential payment if the machines have been delivered three years before the bankruptcy of the debtor, and have proved to be of good quality. To insure the preferential right, the seller must, within three months after the delivery of the machines, register copies of the invoice and any demand for payment which the purchaser has received, in a public register kept for the purpose in the Italian Court of Commercial Justice.

PROFESSOR KARL HASSE has published in the Archiv fur Anatomie und Physiologie an interesting paper, in which he describes how, by exact measurements, he has discovered that the right and left halves of the face of the Venus of Milo are not alike in proportion. Below the nose all the features are strictly regular, but above that point all is irregular. The left ear stands higher up than the right; the left side of the face is also higher, and nearer to the middle line; the left half of the skull is broader than the right. Herr Hasse then measured the two halves of the faces of well-formed and regular-featured men and women, and found that on the average no two halves of a face are quite regular, but irregular in the same way as he found to be the case with the Venus of Milo. "It is astounding," remarks Herr Hasse, "with what exactitude a perfect master unconsciously imitates nature."

THE Vice-Director of the Medicinal Department in St. Petersburg, Mr. Bubnow, remarks on the sanitary condition of Russia that in some parts of the empire mortality reaches the high rate of 60 to 80 deaths per 1,000 inhabitants. Mortality among children is frightful, being 59 per cent., and in some parts even 79 per cent., of the whole mortality. It results that in spite of the very high birth-figure the natural increase in the population is only 1 per cent. There die yearly in Russia about 2,800,000 persons, one million of whom, according to Mr. Bubnow, are the victims of the sanitary conditions. The want of sufficient medical men renders it very difficult to draw up correct statistics. In a population of 100,000,000 there are only 1,600 State physicians, about 1,000 country doctors, and 2,600 privately practising physicians—in all, rather more than 5,000 doctors, who, however, are chiefly concentred in the cities.

LONDON GOSSIP.

(FROM OUR LADY CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, OCT. 20.

To define the boundary line of a Parish, a property, a polling district, a poor law union, a province or an empire seems to be a difficult thing—we hear of its being tried every day with unsatisfactory result in London, Afghanistan and South Africa; but no boundary line has ever raised such differences of opinion as a lady's belt—that little boundary line of which Mother Nature and Fashion each asserts herself the judge.

Miss Leffler-Arnim, lecturing on the human figure at St. Saviour's Hospital, has opened up the vexed question again. She has heard that fifteen inches has been decreed the fashionable waistlimit of the future, and Miss Leffler-Arnim naturally shrinks from the idea of all sorts and conditions of women reducing themselves within so fine a line.

Fashion's laws are, however, very arbitrary. In China it decided that women's feet should be made small, even though they should be crippled in the attainment of this end. Chinese women submitted; they bowed to the irrevocable decree, and had their feet made small; and though nature remedied in the next generation the damage caused by human vagaries, her timid reproof had no effect; and Chinese women crawled and toddled until with advanced civilization it was borne in on their minds that there is beauty and utility in a natural foot, and that a woman may even walk the world happily in boots, size five.

Fashion, here, says that woman's waist, to be beautiful, must be small and round. Mother Nature has always made them rather a good size and oval, and notwithstanding all fashion's efforts at correcting these defects obstinate Mother Nature continues to hold her own on the subject, and repeats her race of large flat-waisted women that require no end of culture and tight lacing to reduce them to tolerable proportions. It is very hard that nature will not take the hint and improve the species to our modern taste. Of course it is difficult to be prepared for the many changes in figure that are now-a-days required. Within the last ten or twenty years how the waist has, so to speak, surged up and down, how the shoulders rose and fell, the hips have come and gone, and what varied forms have our heads attained. On second thoughts it may be as well that nature is conservative in her views. It would never do to have been born old fashioned, with an abnormal development of Chignon or with an "Empire" high up waist. Better be the compressive, according to fashion, kind we are, until, like our Chinese sisters, the advance of civilization makes us see the error of our ways. Miss Leffler-Arnim is not the one to open our eyes. A prophetess who announces that comfort will be the first thing and appearances will become a secondary consideration to the woman of the future, strikes at the foundations of a woman's faith in herself, and must fail even to get a patient hearing to her prophecy. That it is a woman's mission to be charming, be her waist broad or thin, flat or round, has been so firmly believed in since the world began, that it would take more powers than the apostles of hygienic attire possess to convince the world of the contrary.

At the galleries, 5 A, Pall Mall East, there is now an exhibition of the works of the Photographic Society, which shows that after struggling through the difficulties that beset an infant invention when every effort in advance is an experiment, photography has at length taken its place amongst the already developed fine arts of the 19th century. The walls of the gallery are well covered with pictures of life and landscape, sea-shore and ocean, as interesting in their own way as any effort of the masters of brush or pencil, and though we may miss the delicate variety of the flesh tints, and the colors of the field flowers and the sky, we cannot but appreciate the faultless drawing which, though mechanically attainable, is not to be the less prized. The pictures vary in size as much as in subject; and from the vignette to fit a locket to the full length figure, life-size, there is every choice.

I must admit that I cannot admire the full life-size portraits. There is something in these accurate delineations in monochrome which is positively alarming—they are shadows that are too realistic—ghosts that would be beautiful if they could be endowed with natural colour and life. I hope they may not become the fashion instead of portraits in oils. There would be something weird in a gallery of life-size photographic portraits; for living, as we do in a world of color, we require in almost every thing, at least a tiny touch to help our imagination. So, whilst a patch of scarlet lasts in the coat of our soldier-ancestor, or of blue in the gown of our great-grandmother, they belong to our own existence and not to the spirit world beyond.

The best full size photos are taken life-size at once. Enlargements can never be a success, because a small original does not admit of enough detail to have interest if reproduced on a larger scale, and the enlargement requires consequently a good deal of touching up by the photographer; and if he is not a very clever artist, too clever in fact to remain a photographer, he touches it up so thoroughly without his sitter that the modelling on which most of the likeness depends, is lost.

The half-size portraits are the best, and some sketchy things in red are charming, they are so suggestive, and exactly what a photograph should be, a clever grasp of a picturesque effect; of a beauty that is too fleeting to be depicted by the painter's brush, or a phase that is too changeful to last. Mr. Robert Falkner shows children in all their moods and tenses,—overdressed and underclad—in chemise and sans chemise—no beauties most of them, though they have very aristocratic names; but I daresay the ugliest is beautiful, at least in its mamma's eyes.

There is one nameless cherub, however, with whom I fell in love, No. 536, a dear, smiling, lively boy in his shirt—done sketchily in red, but so soft and round and altogether sweet, one would not need to be his mother to admire and to love him

"Living Flowers" 570, by Mrs. Brian Hodgson, is a picture of two pretty children with dreamy Italian faces, enveloped in a soft shawl. The effect is very good except that the folds of the drapery are too studied. The natural fall of a fold, or the hang of a garment, should never be touched—interfering with it often makes one lose the swing of the figure underneath.

"A Christian Martyr," by Mr. Mathew Chubb, is a clever photograph, but the pretty English face, with no attempt at a martyr's exaltation, the hair loosely blown about and giving the incongruous effect of the girl's wearing a modern fur boa, makes one forget that she is intended for a Christian martyr tied to a stake, and spoils it as a picture. Mr. Harry Jolley sends lovely landscapes in storm and sunshine, snow and summer; Mr. H. P. Robinson, a clever field scene with girls singing, and sheep browsing behind—the evenness of the light on each sheep's back suggests touching up and consequent loss of artistic effect.

Mr. Thomas Fall exhibits studies of dogs of all kinds, becomingly framed in cool brown oak. Then there are seascapes in all weathers—shipping and yachts under every wind that blows. The portrait of the "Thistle" in its pride, before it had to sing second to the American, and last but not least, valuable photographs taken in the interests of science, germs bactilia and unpleasant things that this age loves to examine, and vivid reproductions of the lightning flashes during our great storm of August 17th. Surely there are great possibilities in the future for an art that can catch the impress of the lightning flash, and picture to the naked eye things hitherto invisible.

There was a pretty ceremony at Stratford-on-Avon on Monday, when the Jubilee fountain, the gift of Mr Childs, of Philadelphia, was presented to the inhabitants. Mr. Irving, who knows as much about Shakspeare as most people now-a-days, made a clever speech. Mr. Russell Lowell also spoke pleasantly and every one was pleased at this testimony of how the great English bard of Avons' worth is every where recognized.

IT is probable, says the Manchester Guardian, that the public will soon hear more of a celebrated case which has already occupied no much time and attention. The solicitors who have charge of the interests of Sir Charles Dilke in reference to the notorious proceedings of 1885-6 have secured some important evidence. Amongst other things, it may be mentioned that a witness who could not be examined at the last trial, and whose absence provoked a good deal of comment, has been unearthed, and that her evidence is likely to clear up several points which have hitherto been left in much obscurity.

STATISTICS just published show, says the Times correspondent, that the Hungarian harvest of this year has been incomparably better than that of any previous year on record. The harvest which approached it most nearly was that of 1882. The yield of wheat this year has been 41·9 million metric centners, as against 28·4 millions in 1886, and 37·1 millions in 1882. The yield of rye has been 15·6 million metric centners, as against 11 millions in 1886; and that of oats 9·9 millions as against 6·7 millions in 1886; and that of barley 13·9 millions, as against 8·4 millions in 1886.

A VISIT TO THE SASSOON REFORMATORY.

Of the many institutions in the Bombay Presidency with which the name of Sassoon is associated none is nobler in its object or more successful in its achievements than the David Sassoon Reformatory and Industrial Institution which was founded just thirty years ago. The intelligence, cheerfulness and healthy appearance of the boys testify to the efficiency of what is known as the "system," and the entries in the visitors' book tend to prove that cleanliness, good order and attention to duty is the rule, not the exception. In the institution, as its name implies, the industrial as well as the reformatory systems are combined. But its sphere of usefulness extends even beyond these, for it takes the place of a technical school in which boys may be, and are, placed to learn one or other of the several trades which the curriculum embraces. Moreover, its success as an educational agency is so far superior to the ordinary day schools in the locality that more than one of the present inmates have been sent there merely for elementary education. But little is known of the institution by the European population, and did they not occasionally read of a diminutive culprit being ordered there, it would doubtless pass altogether from their memory. Yet it is worthy of remembrance both by the humanitarian and the economist, the every day untheoretical economist who looks for the cheapest market.

ENGLISH AND INDIAN REFORMATORIES.

It is true that the primary object of the institution was to constitute a refuge for the waif and stray, to provide a haven for the neglected and forsaken. Since its establishment it has been the means of rescuing upwards of thirteen hundred little fellows from evil ways and of permanently amending the lives of the great majority of them. A far smaller proportion of those discharged have returned to their evil ways than is the case of boys released from English reformatories, a fact which can only be accounted for by the more conciliatory treatment which here prevails. In England a boy conveyed to an industrial school by order of the Magistrate for a certain period of years remains there without hope of liberty until the time shall have expired for which he has been sent. Should his parents emigrate, or should they desire to send him out to some Colonial friend or relative, they must make an application to the Secretary of State for the Home Department, who may, or may not, call upon the governers of the school to liberate him on these conditions. But such cases are of very infrequent occurrence. In connection with the Sassoon Reformatory the method of procedure is simpler. The parent may apply to the Magistrate to liberate the boy, and provided the boy has conducted himself creditably during the time he has been an inmate of the home he is released, and once released, he rarely, very rarely, returns.

INDUCEMENTS TO REFORM.

A provision of this description is but one of many inducements to reform, and one of the advantages the local institution possesses over kindred establishments at home. Boys who conduct themselves with credit are permitted to pay a periodical visit to their friends in the city, are allowed to receive visits from their friends, and there is also what is known as the Cowasji Jehangir endowment fund from which time-expired boys, who have been well behaved and who have attained proficiency in their particular trade, receive prizes and rewards on dismissal. Until recent years the plan of giving the boys permission to visit their parents at home was not adopted, for it was believed that the taste of freedom would simply cause them to cast aside their regulation clothing and disappear. At first this was so, but their recapture, punishment and temporary stoppage of leave had a salutary effect and the boys soon learnt to regard the privilege at its proper value, and no case has recently occurred in which the confidence reposed in them has been abused.

THE SCHOOL.

Our representative visited the institution the other day and, received with courtesy by the popular Superintendent, Mr. Carpenter, was conducted over the school. Situated in Chunam Kila Lane, off Grant Road, the school and its outbuildings occupy three sides of a quadrangular compound, on the fourth of which stands the Superintendent's house and offices. The first thing which strikes a visitor is the remarkable cleanliness of the place; the next, the limited character of the compound which provides too little exercise ground for the two hundred and thirty boys who are now in residence. But it was pointed out that the Committee had already taken steps with a view to remedy this defect. Adjoining the compound was a piece of ground, in the centre of which was a large tank. This is now in course of filling up and the whole is to be devoted to the extension of the shops and the recreation ground. Still there is a remarkable absence of the means of healthful amusement, for the ground is without either "giant stride," trapeze or horizontal bar, appliances which, though not of absolute necessity, are at least desirable acquisitions in the playground of every asylum in which the young are kept and trained. From the playground the Superintendent led our representative to the school, a spacious well ventilated building which is used for teaching purposes by day and a dormitory by night. Here were three classes. Boys, whose ages ranged from perhaps ten to fifteen, were busy reading, the first in English, another in Marathi, and the third in Gujarati. "Be honest and truthful wherever you are" was the moral of the story the class was reading, and a bright-looking lad of twelve read the lines with fluency and expression which did credit as much to his teacher as to himself. Not only did he pronounce his words with apparent ease, but mastered his aspirate and final ing in a manner which others might emulate with advantage. Texts such as this, we are told, form the subject of most of their reading lessons and of short homilies which are weekly addressed to them by visitors on Sundays.

SUNDAY LECTURES.

The visitors who spend occasional Sunday afternoons in addressing the boys are, for the most part, native converts to Christianity and native gentlemen who taken an interest in their less fortunate fellow countrymen. No reference to any specific religious doctrine is permitted, no attempt at proselytism. No creed may be taught, but a highly moral creed, the key note of which is sounded in the text quoted above. A few words of good advice kindly spoken have doubtless a beneficial effect in many cases. And it is questionable whether or not this plan is not more calculated to be productive of good than the fixed sermon of the chaplain at an industrial or reformatory school at home. Here there is no compulsion. It is optional to the boy whether he goes or not—the result is he goes. In England he is compelled to go—he would stay away if he might.

THE COURSE OF TRAINING.

With the boy who is ordered to the Reformatory is transmitted a form representing that he is convicted of such and such offence and appended is the note:—"The trade for which he is suitable should be reported in order that an indenture may be prepared." The instruction is more pregnant with meaning than appears at first sight. The art of India is a crystallised tradition. It is hereditary. A son is brought up to his father's trade whether he is adapted for it or not. Even if he be, he inherits the crudities and lack of finish which has characterised work of his father and his fathers before him for long generations. He has made no progress and he still uses the primitive implements they were taught to use. The Reformatory school lad in this respect has an advantage over the ordinary youth. He learns the use of improved machinery. What would have taken him four days to accomplish by his father's method he learns to do in one. The trade for which he is best suited is decided upon by the Superintendent, a practical engineer of many years' experience. By him are engaged industrial trainers of tested ability and the lads get to work. Upwards of a hundred are employed in the several cotton mills—forty-six at one thirty-six at another and ten at each of two others. Twenty-five of the most intelligent, to recruit their number, being those who were reading in English, are employed as compositors in the Government Central Press. The remainder are kept in the institution and trained either as brass- or blacksmiths, wood turners, carpenters, painters or coachbuilders.

THE WORK-SHOPS.

In the work-shops which are placed beneath the dormitories the various steps in the whole of the last named branches of art may be seen in progress. Here was a number of carriages in course of repair. One belonged to a leading merchant; another to a gentleman well known in the shipping world, whilst a third, which perhaps should have been mentioned first, to an eminent member of the Judicial Bench. In another part of the building some lads were at work over a small cupola, casting brass, and in a very short time they had finished some strong but neatly made hinges for one of the vehicles, which, as the superintendent claimed, were in every way superior to the bazaar-bought article. Several conveyances were seen in course of construction, the workmanship of which in every respect was excellent. In all branches of industry were the lads equally proficient, and the superintendent's statement that work may be done in the institution better, as well as cheaper, than by the native artificers is one which can be very readily believed.

DISCHARGED BOYS.

Here and there were somewhat old boys at work with their juniors. "These an discharged boys" said the superintendent, "who are now employed and paid fixed monthly wages. A boy who has conducted himself well finds no difficulty in obtaining employment either here or anywhere else. Many of them are employed in the mills; seven have regular work at the Central Press. One works as a carpenter at Rs. 15 per month; another as a painter at Rs. 22 and yet another as blacksmith to a coach-builder at Rs. 30. In the house we have three as carpenters and one as a painter."

THE INMATES.

The bright appearance of the lads has been already commented upon, but it appears there are, as is only natural, exceptions to the rule. One lad was pointed out as a most extraordinary fellow, coming of a bad stock and resembling in every respect his progenitors; another curiosity was a married boy who declined to meet his wife, bullied his parents whenever they went to see him, and refused to avail himself of the privilege of visiting them whenever the opportunity was offered him. A third poor fellow, a deaf-mute, made up for the absence of his voice by his incessant mischief, and one day this week had he paid the penalty of his joviality, by getting his fingers severely crushed by the wheels of a brazier's machine, with which he had been playing. "There is one poor lad I pity," remarked the Superintendent, "there he is; a little Baghdadi boy. He came here a few weeks ago for stealing twenty rupees. He seems to feel his position most acutely; for not only does he know none of the other boys, but is totally unable to speak the same language as any one of them. Thus he sits alone, not joining them in their play and he bursts out crying if you speak to him."

CASTE DISTINCTIONS.

The subject led to questions concerning caste distinctions. From the answers given it appeared that although at school and at work and play the lads associate, at meals they sit apart in little groups—the Brahmins together, the low caste Hindoos, the Mussulmans, the native Christians, the Parsees and the Jews, sit in separate groups, Mussulman boys have the Mahomedan holidays; Hindus the Hindu and the Jews are relieved from duty on Saturdays. On Sundays, as a rule, there is no work, but when the mills require them they go—some one Sunday and some another. "We have here too," said the superintendent "boys who are neither sent in for offences or because they are forsaken by their parents. We have then sent here on payment of fees, to learn English and the use of modern tools. As regards the cooking of the food for the several sections," he continued, "we observe the usual custom. So much bread, so much rice and vegetables are allotted to each boy. A Mahomedan cook prepares the food of his sect: a Brahmin of his, and so on."

PUNISHMENTS.

Among the lads, who were busily drawing their rations, one strapping young fellow came along with irons attached to his waist and ankles. This, it appeared, was the punishment for attempting to abscond, one of the rules of the institution laying down that in such cases the lad shall receive "twelve stripes with a light rattan and be kept in chains for a week. No severer punishment may be inflicted without the consent of the governors." But it appears that the attempts to desert are comparatively few. Nine got away together on one occasion however. Eight were caught without much difficulty, while the ninth, finding his lot in the house more comfortable than that in his home he lingered about the gates of the institution and only made a feint of running away when perceived. Such facts as these as we have here elucidated and the impressions one receives from a visit to the School compel one to believe that the Dvid Sassoon Industrial and Reformatory Institution is, as stated in our opening sentences one of the noblest as well as one of the most successful.

FEMALE EDUCATION AT BARODA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BARODA, Nov. 10.

THE annual distribution of prizes to the students of the Gujarathi Female Normal School and the Marathi Girls' School took place this afternoon. Divanbahadur Lakshman Jagannath distributed the prizes and Divanbahadur Manibhai, Chief Justice Cursetji, Justice Bhatvadekar and many other advocates of female education were present. From the reports read it appears that the total number of female students at Baroda is about 500, that the Gujerathis have made a better progress than the Marhatha., and that the members of the better class do not allow their daughters to continue their studies after they become 12 years of age. Songs composed for the occasion were sung by the children. There were about half a dozen little Parsi maids in the group. The needle work arranged for the inspection of the visitors indicated considerable aptitude, but I did not like the aniline dyes that prevailed. It showed loyalty to the popular prince and devotion to his person to copy His Highness's portrait in needle work, but it was impossible to reproduce his exact lineaments with needle and thread. Such things should not be attempted. Education in cookery seems to form part of the curriculum. The prizes consisted of sadis, cholis, khonds, caps (for Parsi girls) and similar articles of dress. Mr Somarth established during the year two scholarships to be awarded to girls of his community.

An unusual number of British war ships have been launched, or for the first time floated, this year. The list includes three ironclads of the first-class, the Victoria, the Sanspareil, and the Trafalgar; six belted cruisers, the Australia, the Galatea, the Immortalite, the Narcissus, the Orlando, and the Undaunted; and about half a dozen smaller vessels. The catalogue was increased yesterday by the launch, at Devonport, of the Spider, a sister ship to the Grasshopper, Rattlesnake, and Sandfly. She is a torpedo boat destroyer, or, to give her the official description, a torpedo gun boat, of 450 tons displacement, and 3,000 indicated horse-power. Her hull is entirely constructed of steel, varying from one-half to three-quarters of an inch, and she will carry one four-inch 65 cwt. breech-loader and six 3-pounder quick-firing guns, together with four torpedo-launching tubes. Her engines, if they fulfil the expectations which have been formed concerning them, will drive the Spider at a rate of 19 knots, or 21½ miles an hour; and she will carry enough coal to enable her to steam 2,80C knots at 11 knots without replenishing her bunkers. Only one or two more British men-of-war remain to be launched this year; but already, since the 1st January, very nearly 70,000 have been added to the total displacement of the Royal Navy. When it is remembered that this tonnage is greatly in excess of that of all the existing war ships of such Powers as Brazil, Chili, China, Denmark, Greece, Japan, or Sweden and Norway, the value of the recent additions to her Majesty's Fleet becomes to some extent apparent.

FLORILINE!—FOR THE TEETH AND BREATH—A few drops of the liquid "Floriline" sprinkled on a wet tooth-brush produces a pleasant lather, which thoroughly cleanses the teeth from Bparasites or impurities, hardens the gums, prevents tartar, stops decay, gives to the teeth a peculiar pearly whiteness, and a delightful fragrance to the breath. It removes all unpleasant odour arising from decayed teeth or tobacco smoke. The "Fragrant Floriline," being composed in part of honey and sweet herbs, is delicious to the taste, and the greatest toilet discovery of the age. THE UNIVERSITY FRENCH COURSE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—Let me ventilate, through the medium of your valuable and popular journal the grievances which the candidates taking up French as their second language in their higher University Course are labouring under. The first and foremost difficulty which they encounter is the want of scholastic tuition. Since the recognition of French as the second language by our University, not one of our affiliated colleges has as yet opened classes to teach it. There are in our market a host of so called French teachers in Bombay, but the number of those who have a competent knowledge of the history and literature of the French language are few and far between, and their time is so much taken up by the rudimentary classes that the higher aspirants are practically deprived of their assistance. The second difficulty which students have to cope with is the vexation caused by the University Authorities in publishing their curriculum when one half of the study in other languages is over; then again there is a difficulty of obtaining the prescribed books from our Bombay booksellers. These books have to be ordered out from home, which takes up at least three months. To give your readers an idea of the present course for the P. E. let me encroach upon your space a little more. The books prescribed are "Fables de La Fontaine" and "Stael's Corinne." The twelve Books of the former containing as they do many archaic, obsolete and abstruse expressions, and a bulky volume of the latter containing about 500 pages, have to be gone through in too short a period to master them. To remove the difficulties complained of I would make the following suggestions:—1st. The French course should be published before the commencement of the term, like other courses. 2ndly. Professors should be appointed in our affiliated Colleges for it as for other languages. 3rdly The selections should be made from works of modern authors.

ONE PERPLEXED.

FURLOUGH FOR NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—Permit me to make a few remarks with reference to "furlough out of India for six months for non-commissioned officers." Now the leading condition upon which a non-commissioned officer shall be granted this leave is that "he should have completed twel jection in the face of a rocky cliff, far from the haunts of man, or under the eaves of a house in his very midst. The nests of all three are well lined with soft feathers, and they often serve for a second brood, the feathers only being renewed. The eggs, three in number, are very handsome, being white with a delicate pink tint when fresh and unblown, thickly spotted and speckled with bright red-brown and inky purple; but the markings on the eggs of the latter are not so bright or so well defined as on those of the two former. The nest of the (Hirundo erythropygia) Mosque Swallow is built after a very different pattern, but the material used is the same, viz., mud, which the bird procures from the banks of the nearest pond or river. Both sexes assist in making the nest, which is of a peculiar shape, and has been not inaptly described as retort-shape, or rather half-retort. It is usually affixed to the roof of a cave, bridge, or culvert, or to the under-surface of the ledge of a rock. They construct a large bulb-like chamber, five or six inches in diameter, with a tubular passage of varying length, reaching occasionally to quite nine inches, but in general the length is not more than four or five. The male bird often goes on lengthening this passage after the eggs are laid and while the female is sitting on them. The nest is well lined with soft feathers, and the eggs, three in number, are pure unspotted white. After the birds have once chosen a site for a nest, they are very hard to drive away. I have often broken open nests to see if any eggs had been laid, and they have always been repaired, and I have eventually obtained eggs from them. To such an extent is the constructive faculty developed in these birds that they often build two or more nests before they are satisfied, and they are known to make a winter residence for themselves in which eggs are never found. They are solitary breeders. Not so, however, the (Hirundo fluvicola) Cliff Swallows, whose immense clusters of nests often amount to from one hundred and fifty to two hundred in number. They also build retort-shape nests, but in quite a different fashion, the bulbs or chamber portions being affixed to the under-surface of a shelving rock, or under a bridge with the tubes hanging down or rather a little outwards, the whole looking not unlike a huge honeycomb. They are well lined with feathers and the eggs, three in number, vary a great deal in shape, size and colour. About half of them are pure unspotted white, and the remaining half are more or less spotted, speckled or streaked with yellowish-brown. These markings are, however, not very clearly defined. All the eggs of a clutch are of the same type. They breed at least twice a year, nest being found from July to April in most places where they breed. These colonies are always near water. Their nests are occasionally appropriated by the (Cypsellus affinis) Common Swift. A cluster of these nests that I found under a bridge on the Saugor Road, about twenty miles from Kareli, was jointly tenanted by Cliff Swallows (Hirundo fluvicola), Indian Swifts (Cypsellus affinis), and Common Sparrows (Passer indicus). The outer nests were occupied by the (Cypsellus affinis) Swifts and (Passer indicus) Sparrows, and the inner ones by the (Cypsellus affinis) Cliff Swallows. The next birds are the Sand Martins of which it is still an open question whether (Cotyle riparia, Cotyle subsocata, Cotyle sinensis), one, two or three, species occur in India. I myself have only met with one and this is the Indian Sand Martin, whose method of breeding is somewhat similar to that of our British species, but the nesting holes seem much more scattered. They bore holes in the sandy banks of rivers to the depth of one and a half to more than four feet according to the relative hardness of the soil, and at the end of this hole or passage, which is somewhat enlarged, they make a nest, composed of fine grass roots and feathers. The eggs are pure, spotless white, and almost devoid of gloss. I have never found more than three eggs in any one nest, but others speak of finding as many as five. This completes the swallows and martins. The swifts differ widely in many respects from the foregoing, as do also their nests. Mud that entered so largely into their construction is now no longer found, but in its stead agglutinated saliva is most frequently used. The different species of swifts build very dissimilar nests. The nesting of the (Cypsellus affinis) Indian Swift is so well known that it is almost superfluous to say anything about it, but frequently common every day objects are passed unnoticed, and to meet such cases as these I will briefly describe their nests. As a rule, they breed together in great numbers. They often make a huge cluster of nests, which they affix to the roof of a cave or other suitable place, with isolated nests or small clumps of two or three, scattered here and there in close proximity to the central mass. The bird frequents the busiest thoroughfares, as well as the most retired spots. Another favourite site for their nests is the space between the rafters of a stable roof or verandah as well as under the eaves of houses. Great numbers of them may now be seen breeding in the verandah, under the Commissary-General's offices in the Fort. Their nests, which take a considerable time to construct, are composed of agglutinated saliva, mixed with a few feathers and straws. They are of no particular shape, being at times round and narrow, occasionally almost [illegible] and sometimes they are of a very irregular [illegible]. The birds [illegible] number, are long [illegible] white. The birds [illegible] see from my notes [illegible] in the year in which I have [illegible] more or less yellow [illegible] edge of the (Cypsellus [illegible]) Nilgiris, of Malliganum, and breedings which we had [illegible] in this district. He [illegible] and disuse of [illegible] On several occasions he [illegible] eggs. These places are [illegible], and generally it is [illegible] cliffs above them, so as [illegible] in one or two places, [illegible] cliffs above which [illegible] easy, and the Bheels get [illegible] they take [illegible] A rope ladder is constructed of pieces of bamboo about fifteen inches long, tied between two strong ropes, which are fastened to a very thick rope. The steps are about two and a half feet apart, so that a long ladder does not weigh very much. The thick rope is tied to a tree if possible, if not it is held by a number of men, and the rope ladder hung over the precipice. A Bheel then ties a light rope under his arms and, with the end held by people above who pay out the rope, runs down the ladder which swings about in the wind. In taking the nests of the (Cypsellus melba) Alpine Swift, however, the difficulty, lies in the fact that they breed in long isolating runways into overhanging cliffs. Many of these places the man can't get at, or even if he can the nests are out of his reach. During the rains the people refused to try at all, on the ground that at that season the overhanging cliff would probably fall on them. The specimen of nest shows where it was fastened to both sides of the fissure. It is a very solid structure in comparison to that of the (Cypsellus affinis) common Indian Swift. The (Cypsellus batasiensis) Palm Swift is, as I have already said, found throughout the plains of India, wherever the toddy tree abounds, and it is to the under-surface of a leaf of this tree that they attach their tiny nests. They are composed of fine vegetable down, cemented together by the saliva of the birds. The upper edge or the rim of the nest (which in shape resembles a watch pocket) is generally very hard and cord-like, but the remaining portion of it is much softer. The eggs, three in number, are perfect miniatures of those of the common swift. They are solitary builders, not more than one or at most two nests being found on the same tree. The (Cypsellus infumatus) Palm Roof Swifts are stated by Dr. Jerdon (I have myself never seen one), to attach their nests to the palm leaves, used by the people in the Naga Hills to roof their huts. The roofs consists of two separate layers, and it is to the upper surface of the lower layer that the nests are attached. One of the edible nest swiftlets breeds in several places on the Nilgiri Hills, as also on the Vingorla Rocks, from whence it is stated that one hundredweight of nests are exported every season. These nests are, however, much inferior in value to those of Collocalia linchi and Collocalia spodiopygia, which are clear white. Both kinds, are, however, esteemed a delicacy in China and fetch there a good price. I will conclude my remarks with an account of the nesting of, perhaps, the most interesting bird of all. I allude to the (Dendrochelidon coronata) Crested Swift, which makes its nest against the side of a dead branch, in shape like a very shallow half saucer which can easily be covered by a depreciated rupee, and it is no where more than one-eighth of an inch in thickness, and is barely half an inch in depth. As might be expected, a single egg only is laid, which is of a pure glossless white. The nest itself is composed of thin flakes of bark glued together with saliva. My object has been to give a plain description, or rather account, of the nesting habits of these, to me, interesting birds, and I have avoided the use of scientific and technical terms as much as possible.

Mr. G. W. Vidal, C.S., proposed a vote of thanks to Lieutenant Barnes for his interesting paper, and added a few particulars regarding the habits of the Indica Hirundines from observations made by himself and other ornithologists.

The meeting then ended.

THE QUEEN OF MADAGASCAR has issued a proclamation—which is countersigned by her Prime Minister—rendering all Malagasy women who are living in concubinage with foreigners liable to the loss of their civil rights and the confiscation of the property they hold under Malagasy law. The proclamation also declares that the offspring of such connections will be regarded as Malagasy subjects. Queen Ranavalona has thus struck a blow at a form of immorality which is very prevalent in semi-civilized countries. The Madagascar Times explains that the authors of the new law are also attacking other abuses—notably slavery. It appears that foreigners living with native women are accustomed to give them money to purchase slaves. The men themselves cannot own human beings, but through native women they are able to purchase slaves and employ them in working plantations and building houses. It is said that some British subjects are addicted to such practices. If so, they must be prepared to submit to the new law, which, we may add, was promulgated on the first of September.

IN the burial ground of Old Upton Church, Slough, on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 18, the obsequies of this celebrated jockey took place. Although the funeral was kept as private as possible, there was a numerous attendance of sympathising spectators, many of whom were much moved by the solemn scene. The plate on the coffin was inscribed with the words :—" George Fordham, died October 12th, 1887, in his 51st year. It is the pace that kills !" The coffin, which was of polished oak with brass fittings, was completely covered over with wreaths of splendid flowers sent by M. Leopold de Rothschild, Tom Jennings, jun., John Porter, Charles Wood, General Goodlake, Watt, and many others.

RENTS IN IRELAND.

THE Daily News take from the latest Table of Judicial Rents just issued by the Land Commission the following corrections of value on the Roscommon estate of Mr. King-Harman, M.P., the Under-Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant :—

Tenant.	Former Rent.	Judicial Rent.
J. McLoughlin...	9 15 0	6 16 0
T. Brennan	18 0 0	11 10 0
J. Higgins	4 19 6	4 6 0
T. Kennedy	4 4 0	3 5 0
J. Feely	6 5 0	4 0 0
Mary Flanagan..	6 9 4	3 10 0

Thus on an agregate of six cases decided there is a reduction from 61l. 12s. to 40l. 12s., or close upon 35 per cent. This judicial decision on the estate of one of the members of the Government ought to be borne in mind when the revolt of tenants against landlords who have not the same reason to be scrupulous with their tenants, is considered.

Some rents in county Clare, as they were found by the Assistant Commissioners, and as they were left by them, are worth nothing in view of recent Government proceedings in that district. On the now historic hill of Ballycoree two tenants, each charged a rent of 14l. 16s. 10d. by Captain C. O'Callaghan, have had their rents fixed at 9l. 19s. The same landlord had a tenant at Ballymaley, whose rent was 12l. 11s. 3d. The Commissioners fixed seven guineas as the equitable rent—a reduction of over 40 per cent. In the same township another rent of Captain O'Callaghan's was reduced from 7l. 2s. 4d. to 4l. 10s. ; one of 4l. 12s. to 3l. 5s. ; one of 24l. 12s. to 15l. 10s. ; and two of 33l. 1s. 3d. to to 20l. each. These are not isolated cases in Clare. Glancing down the list of the decisions we find on other estates reductions such as these ; 58l. to 32l.. 12l. to 7l, 18l. to 11l. 10s, 2l. to 1l., 30l. to 18l., 32l. to 21l., 5l. to 2l. 15s., 20l. to 12l. 12s., 11l. 3s. 11d. to 7l. 10s., and so on. In the whole of Clare the Commissioner's summary for July shows that they have dealt with a rental of 3,629l. by taking away from it no less a sum than 1,032l.

GENERAL BOULANGER AND THE FRENCH SCANDALS.

GENERAL BOULANGER has been interviewed by the Paris correspondent of the Daily News with reference to the French Decoration Scandals. The correspondent writes :—

It was my privilege, as a private friend, and not as a journalist, to see General Boulanger at Clarmont just before the order arrived which cut him off from the rest of the world, and to hear from his lips the latest expression of his views, which offer an unusual interest, bearing as they do upon the burning subject of the moment. How I was enabled to see him was as follows :—Returning from the south I broke my journey for a day at Clermont-Ferrand, in which town I had been introduced to a prominent personage. It fell out that we met as he was going to the Quarter-General, and I being already acquainted with General Boulanger asked leave to accompany him, which he of course granted. Upon entering the residence in the Cours des Sablons, commonplace like everything in Clermont, we were ushered into an ante-room on the ground-floor, where several officers were at work dealing with an overwhelming amount of correspondence. They rose on our entrance, and a captain, motioning us to a seat behind a screen, disappeared by a side door, from which he issued again, and bade us step in.

General Boulanger has not perceptibly altered since I saw him at the War Office. He is the same powerful man, young as ever, notwithstanding a few grey streaks behind the temples, and he has lost none of the old winning charm. He was comfortably dressed in a plain loose English buff suit. After the formal greetings there was a momentary silence. General Boulanger, though looking well, complained of being tired from overwork, and in need of a good long sleep He tried, from an apparently courteous feeling, to shake off fatigue, but his usual elasticity and spirit were wanting. Talk flagged, and I and my friend, who, I should add, came on local matters having a military bearing, had to start subjects each of which were soon exhausted, the General disposing of them in a few words instead of dilating upon favourite themes. On my asking whether he did not feel time hanging heavily on his hands at Clermont, General Boulanger replied that all the leisure the requirements of his military service allowed him was taken up by study, and by the reception of friends from Paris, between which and Clermont there were several fast and convenient trains daily.

After further conversation the General was bidding us good night to go to bed, when a despatch was brought in. He looked at it for a moment, then looked smilingly at us, as much as to say "This contains something sensational." After that he opened it, and, holding it near a lamp, cast his eye over it for a moment. I watched his face. Not a sign could be detected in it of emotion. The smile continued to play, and then the General said "It's in cypher." With this he rang. A young orderly officer entered, and General Boulanger, giving him the telegram, said "Take this to the head of my staff, and if he is there let him decipher it at once." There was then some conversation about the Caffarel-Limousin scandal. I think I may give it, but in doing so I must emphatically declare that General Boulanger did not authorise me to do so, that I was not at his residence to interview him, and that he did not receive me as an journalist, but as an Englishman with whom he had been acquainted in Paris, and who, being under an obligation to him for much past courtesy, was particularly anxious to visit him at a time when he seemed to be under a cloud. The General thought the despatch brought the order for him to be shelved. He said that he could not regret, seeing the odious attempt which had been made in Paris to tarnish his honour for party ends, what he had said to the two reporters. Was he to stand by silently when artful attempts were being made to cast blackening aspersions on him ? Why were the police allowed to send to the newspapers the pretended find at Madame Limousin's, in the teeth of the most hard and fast rules of the French judicature, if the whole thing was not a plot of his enemies ? He had never been called upon to defend himself, and had not been defended. The first move was to hit him by ricochet in hitting Caffarel. The papers that attacked him sank all these facts, namely, that he never was personally acquainted with Caffarel, that Caffarel had such good recommendations that he was bound to take him, that it was impossible to have even suspected his honour was tarnished, and that he was only five weeks under General Boulanger.

I take upon myself to add that Caffarel was four months subsequently under General Ferron, who knew a good deal about him in 1884. When the Caffarel incident came to nothing these journals who had such early police information then tried to cast slurs on General Young, as General Boulanger's right-hand man. His visiting card found at Madame Limousin's was then the basis of an indictment by the well-informed organs of his enemies. Several thousand visiting cards of every War Minister are usually sent by his secretaries on the occasion of the new year to all those persons who call on him, and to officers and their families. An ordinary letter of audience that would have been sent to no matter whom was perversely used. What could be worse for discipline, than for general officers to be forced to stand patiently in the mud, when a general had to face as a commander several thousand soldiers who had read attacks upon his honour that were not answered. His position became too dreadful for him to keep silence any longer. General Boulanger spoke in French. I made no notes of what he said, for I had no intention of publishing it until I came to Paris and read how he had been gibbetted in the Berlin papers as the friend of Caffarel, Limousin and Co., and I repeat that I write this report of a purely private conversation without asking his leave.

The translation of the cyphered message not coming in he went to bed, and we left him. The next morning I again went to his residence, this time with a Deputy, who wanted to ask him to come and lunch with him after the funeral of M. Bourget, the rector of the Academy, which both were to attend. The General's orderly informed us that his chief was under close arrest of thirty days, and could see nobody during that term. In this way we learnt the substance of the cyphered dispatch.

COLERIDGE AND THE QUANTOCK HILLS.

IN an article in Macmillan's Magazine, Mr. William Cresswell writes :—As in great and general ideas, so in lesser themes the influence of the Quantocks peeps out. It was a Quantock brook which suggested to Coleridge the idea of writing a poem called "The Brook," tracing the spring from its mossy source down to the sea, with every kind of poetic imagery and picturesque allegory. This idea, according to the delightful freemasonry which existed between the poets at this time, was communicated by Coleridge to Wordsworth and elaborated by the latter in his Sonnets on the river Duddon. Again this period was, in the case of Coleridge especially, a transitional and therefore deeply interesting one, when youthful ideals and early dreams, both vain and impossible, were giving way to substantial realities and assured conditions of life. Both Southey and Coleridge had, like Rousseau, contemplated founding some ideal community across the seas, where all would be equal, and the conditions of a primitive Arcadia realised. In his monody on the death of Chatterton, Coleridge alludes to these ideas :

" Yet will I love to follow the sweet dream,

W. HAY

{MANUFACTURING CHEMIST TO AERATED WATER MANUFACTURERS} HULL, ENGLAND.

Indentors, to prevent disappointment, should specify that the Goods are to be of Hay's manufacture.

The greatest care is used in packing for export to India; if in 1 lb. Glass Bottles (recommended for finest Essences), the cost of packing and delivering free on board ship at Hull, London, or Liverpool, adds about 7½ per cent. to the cost.

W. HAY cautions the Trade against the use of those spurious-so-called Soluble Essences, which, besides having no Ginger Aroma, are Flavourless, Rank, and Disagreeable and are little more than Tinctures of Capsicum.

TEETH LIKE PEARLS,

white and sound teeth, perfect freedom from decay, a healthy action of the gums, and delightfully fragrant breath can best be obtained by discarding gritty tooth powders and acid washes and using daily or Pearl Dentifrice, a white powder composed of the most recherché ingredients of the Oriental herbal, and warranted free from any gritty or deleterious ingredients; it whitens and preserves the teeth, prevents and arrests decay, eradicates scurvy, strengthens the gums, and gives a lasting fragrance to the breath, while its antiseptic and anti-acidulic properties exercise a highly beneficial influence on the teeth and gums. All Dentists allow that neither washes or scales can possibly be so efficacious for polishing the teeth and preventing decay as a pure and non-gritty tooth powder: such ROWLANDS' ODONTO has always proved itself.

No other Odonto is genuine.

ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL is now sold in a golden colour for fair and golden-haired people and children.

ROWLANDS' KALYDOR beautifies the complexion, eradicates all cutaneous defects, and renders the skin soft, smooth and delicate. Ask anywhere for "ROWLANDS'" articles, of 20, Hatton Garden, London, and avoid spurious and pernicious imitations.

READ BROTHERS, LONDON. THE DOG'S-HEAD BOTTLING.

In The English High Court of Judicature.

THE "BULL DOG'S HEAD" BRAND
(Bass's Ale & Guinness's Stout.)

READ BROTHERS, of London, request purchasers of their Bottled Ale and Stout to ask for "THE DOG'S HEAD BRAND" because another and totally distinct Bottler uses the figure of a Bull Dog, and thus two bottlings of entirely different character may both be called "BULL DOG." The original "Bull Dog" mark is the registered property of READ BROTHERS, and their bottling still often goes by that name, but the title of "DOG'S HEAD BRAND" is theirs exclusively and is the only one that is protected by the Injunction of the Lords Justices of England.

"North-street, Audenshaw (near Manchester),
"January 10, 1882.

It affords me great pleasure to add my testimony to wonderful effects of your Blood Mixture, which has cured me of a very bad ulcerated foot and ankle. I had four wounds which prevented me following my occupation for four years, during which time I have been in five different infirmaries and under fifteen different doctors. I was at last induced to try your Blood Mixture, and after taking three small bottles I was able to go to work, and by the time I had taken nine or ten bottles I was completely cured. Make whatever use you like of this, for the benefit of other sufferers.—I am, yours respectfully,
"JOHN WILLIAMS."
